6. Review of Goals from May, 2009 Annual Meeting

   - Active presence at CCPA conferences – highlighting the importance of social justice;
   - Training opportunities for counsellors to raise awareness and development of essential skills for social justice action and for working across various types of borders;
   - Promotion of a collective voice on issues of social justice, with a view to encouraging the CCPA to take an active stance on key issues and lobbying for the development of position statements or other policies to support social justice;
   - Ways for CCPA members who are interested in social justice to dialogue with each other – including online discussion forums or other means of continued interaction;
   - A resource library on the topic of social justice to support member growth and research on various aspects of social justice;
   - Possibility of peer consultation processes that might foster the application of social justice principles and practice in counsellors work with clients;
   - Possibilities for inter-disciplinary collaboration, particularly with disciplines with a strong social justice background (like social work);
   - Opportunities to highlight social justice issues in the public sphere through various forms of media.
